Campaign Chief To Replace Poulson At Head Of Ohio Democratic Party

MYRNA SMITH REPLACED

Earl Hanefeld And Several Others Retained By Nominee

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25—(UP)—Direction of the Democratic party in Ohio passed into new hands today as Arthur L. Limbach, dynamic New Philadelphia lawyer, assumed his new position as chairman of the State Democratic executive committee.

Limbach was elected unanimously on the recommendation of Charles Sawyer, the party's gubernatorial nominee. He succeeds Francis W. Poulson, Cleveland, who ruled Democratic ranks during the two terms of Governor Martin L. Davey.

Miss Catherine Carter, Norwood, was named executive committee secretary to replace Mrs. Myrna Smith. Mrs. Smith served in a dual role, as she also is Gov. Davey's confidential secretary.

Poulson attended the meeting, but Mrs. Smith was not present. On two occasions Poulson approached the speaker's table where Sawyer presided and spoke to the nominee. Sawyer pleaded for a "united party" and said he had "forgotten the primary," but appeared to deliberately avoid shaking hands with Poulson in the presence of newspaper photographers.

"No Money to Handle"
At Sawyer's request a treasurer of the state central committee was not chosen. The nominee said he

Robert S. Hayes, Columbus, long active in party circles, was selected as treasurer of the executive committee. In this capacity he succeeds Thomas J. Duffy, Columbus.

W. B. Francis, Martins Ferry, was the central committee treasurer.

PAPER TO BE SUSPENDED IF SAWYER HAS HIS WAY

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25—(UP)—Abandonment of the "Ohioan," official publication of the Democratic party during the two terms of Governor Martin L. Davey appeared certain here today.

In a prepared statement Charles Sawyer, victor over Davey in the primary, said:

"I have been asked my attitude toward the Ohioan. So far as I am concerned its publication will be discontinued. I understand the paper is owned by stockholders, who of course have the right to do with it as they please, but it will not have any official sanction or support from me or the Democratic committee."

U. S. LUTHERAN MISSION RAIDED

Japanese Planes Throw Many Bombs On Flag Covered Building

HANKOW, Aug. 25—(UP)—The American Evangelical Lutheran mission here received a telegram today from the mission at Ichang, saying much damage had been done to a house adjoining the mission in a Japanese air raid. Elmer Thode of Laporte, Ind., the only American in the house, was uninjured. It was understood the house was draped with two large American flags. It is 200 yards from the air field. The damage was reported to the United States consulate.

The raid was carried out by 18 Japanese planes which dropped 48 bombs.

WOMAN WHO CUT HAND, REMOVED EYE RECOVERING

MERCED, Cal., Aug. 25—(UP)—Mrs. Ola Harwell, 26, assured physicians today that she would be ready to return to her household duties in a few days despite the loss of her left eye and right hand.

She used scissors to gouge out her eye and an axe to cut off her hand. She had a vision while she was reading the Bible to her husband and two children, she said, and the vision told her to cut off her hand and to remove her eye.

Physicians, surprised that her condition was as good as it was, said it would be several days before she could leave the hospital, but that she undoubtedly would be ready to leave sooner than most patients.

"I knew the time would come some day," Mrs. Harwell said. "When the moment of the supreme test came I did not hesitate."

Mrs. Harwell's husband, six years younger than she, was released after police decided he had had nothing to do with his wife's injuries. Harwell, his wife and her two children by a previous marriage came to California from the southwestern dust bowl region four months ago.

J. C. STEVENSON TO SHOW FINE HEREFORDS AT FAIR

Former Circleville Man Slain In Chillicothe; Suspect Grilled

Fred Turner Found Shot to Death on Shortcut from Business District To "White Heaven" Community

Fred Turner, a resident of the Chillicothe "White Heaven" district and a former Circleville man, was slain Wednesday afternoon on the W. Water street hill, Chillicothe, by an assailant who shot him through the head and body and then beat his head with the death weapon. Ross county officials are questioning Ira Walker, 54, Negro barber, as a suspect in the murder.

Turner lived on Maplewood avenue in Circleville from 1915 to 1920 during which time he was employed at the Container Corporation of America plant.

He was found in a path which leads from the Chillicothe business district to the "White Heaven" district about 3:30 p. m. Wednesday by Raymond Eidenour and Harry Breidenbaugh, also residents of the settlement who were taking the same shortcut to their homes.

Shot Twice, Beaten
Turner was shot twice, one bullet striking him in the left breast and piercing his lungs and the other entering his back on the left side and passing through the heart. Although either shot could have been fatal immediately, Turner's body was found 30 feet from a pool of blood that marked the spot where he was struck. Ross county police believe that Turner's assailant was hiding in weeds along the path waiting for him.

Officials are probing a robbery motive, too, since Turner was said to have cashed a W.P.A. check in Chillicothe and had some money on him before he left the business area. His pockets were empty when he was found.

Walker was arrested at his barber shop when police learned that he and Turner had had trouble over a Chillicothe Negro named Ethel Smith. She had been living at Turner's home for the last few weeks, the authorities declared, despite alleged threats by Walker that he would "club both to death" if he ever found them together. It was on the basis of these threats, reported by the woman, that Walker was arrested.

It was said, Thursday, that Walker claimed he had closed his barber shop about 1 o'clock in the afternoon and had gone to the Royal theatre leaving at 3:30. Theatre attaches who are acquainted with Walker said that he had not been there. He was unable to discuss the movie being shown Wednesday. He has maintained innocence, Ross county sheriff's deputies, who arrested him, declared.

Piece of Pistol Found
The Negro reported to be the center of the trouble between Turner and Walker said that she owned a Smith and Wesson pistol that Walker had taken. The revolver had not been found Thursday although it was reported a piece from its handle was found beside the Turner body. Authorities believe the piece was broken off when the weapon was being used to beat the bullet victim.

A Circleville Negro was taken into custody for questioning Wednesday evening by Sheriff Charles Radcliff when it was learned that he had fought Turner over a "White Heaven" woman two weeks ago. The local man proved an alibi and was released.

Turner is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Rinehart, of Chillicothe. His former wife, who is married the second time, lives in Circleville.

VILLAGE NAMES ENGINEERS FOR WATER PROJECT

Burgess & Niple, Columbus engineers, have been employed by New Holland village council to handle preliminary work for the proposed water system in the village to be constructed with federal aid.

The firm will plat the village for main lines, a standpipe and wells, and furnish an estimated cost on the project so an application may be filed for federal aid.

FORTY MILLIONS INCLUDED UNDER SECURITY LAWS

WASHINGTON, Aug. 25—(UP)—The Social Security board announced today that at the end of July 40,097,446 employees had applied for Social Security cards.

Although applicants for old-age insurance accounts constitute one-third of the population, the board paid out in benefits only $785,662 last month. Since payroll taxes began January 1, 1937, it has disbursed only $6,700,000 to more than 184,000 workers retiring at 65 or to families of those who died before reaching that age.

This is accounted for by the fact that earned credit, from which the lump sum retirement and death benefit payments are made, are necessarily small at the start.

ROTARIANS HEAR TALK ON OHIO SOYBEAN INDUSTRY

Rotarians, Thursday noon, heard an interesting talk by Ray Cook, engineer for the Ralston-Purina Co., on the soybean industry, its development and its value to farmers.

Mr. Cook said that although soybeans were brought to the United States from the Orient even before Jefferson's time, the industry has been developed on the Pickaway Plains only during the last 10 years. Mr. Cook pointed out that Pickaway county could provide enough soybeans to operate the big Ralston-Purina plant, but that farmers of the county had not yet been educated sufficiently concerning the cash value of the crop.

The Purina plant, the largest soybean processing unit in Ohio, is using beans from several states at the present time. "With the cooperation of the farmers and townpeople," Mr. Cook said, "the plant will continue to be the biggest user of soybeans in Ohio."

FAIRFIELD COUNTY TOWN SUFFERS BIG FIRE LOSS

CARROLL, O., Aug. 25—(UP)—Damage caused by a midnight fire in this Fairfield county village today was estimated at between $20,000 and $35,000. Two stores were destroyed and the Farmers and Merchants Bank damaged extensively. Cause of the blaze was not determined.

MORE 'SCALDING' ARRESTS LOOM

Coroner Scores Mayor Of Philadelphia For Interfering

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 25—(UP)—Coroner Charles H. Hersch said today that "there may be more than guards involved" in the "roasting" deaths of four hunger-striking convicts at Philadelphia county prison, and intimated he might serve four more warrants on prison "higher-ups."

I'll determine today just who gives the orders up here (at the prison) and who ordered the steam turned on," Hersch said. He accused Mayor S. Davis Wilson, who directed the arrest of two prison guards yesterday, of premature and unwarranted action.

"We would have completed this case yesterday if the mayor had not butted in," Hersch said.

The coroner said he would order the removal of Prison Superintendent William B. Mills until the inquiry was completed "if there is any interference with my investigation on his part."

Twenty-one other prisoners, confined to the "Klondike" punishment block with the four dead men, were hospitalized for severe heat prostration after prison guards found them unconscious Monday. They were expected to recover.

"There may be more than guards involved in this thing and we may serve more than four warrants today on some of the 'higher-ups,'" the coroner said.

Mayor Wilson announced, meantime, that he would take no further part in the investigation, but maintained he had "done my duty" in acting yesterday.

CARIBBEAN SEA REGION WARNED OF HURRICANE

MIAMI, Fla., Aug. 25—(UP)—A vicious tropical hurricane was reported moving toward the Yucatan channel today.

Ships in the path of the gale and all interests in extreme western Cuba and the Yucatan peninsula were advised to take extreme caution.

Of full hurricane intensity with winds exceeding 75 miles an hour, the storm was located at 1 a. m. approximately 120 miles north of Swan Island in the Caribbean sea, the federal hurricane warning system reported.

The hurricane was expected to sweep through the Yucatan channel, which separates Cuba from Yucatan, this afternoon or early tonight.

The storm was following a path very close to that taken by the only other hurricane of the year, which drove out of the Caribbean into the Gulf of Mexico and with diminished intensity, struck the United States mainland in Louisiana near the Texas border.

FIVE MILES OF ELECTRIC LINES READY FOR USE

Cooperative Officials To Turn On Power At 4 P. M. Thursday

WALTERS HOME 'READY

Work Progressing In Area Around Amanda; Wiring Being Completed

Five miles of the newly constructed rural electrification lines in Monroe township were to be energized at 4 p. m. Thursday. The line to be energized is the first constructed in Pickaway county's rural electrification program under the South Central Rural Electric Cooperative embracing Pickaway, Fairfield and Perry counties.

First home to receive electricity in the county under the program is that of Mrs. Marie Walters in Five Points. The line energized is on the Five Points-Pherson road. About 30 miles of rural electrification lines are under construction in Monroe township.

Work is progressing rapidly on construction of lines in the Amanda district of Fairfield county. Darwin Kindler, superintendent of the cooperative, said Thursday. The crew employed on the Fairfield county work will move into Pickaway county soon. Mr. Kindler predicts that about 56 miles of lines in the eastern portion of the county will be constructed within the next two months.

Home wiring is being completed as rapidly as possible so lines may be energized as soon as the construction work is completed.

POLICE OFFICER PROVES SUCCESS AS DOCTOR, TOO

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(UP)—Patrolman Robert Friemann, 34, who became a policeman last March, was ringing in from his post early today when a man grabbed him by the arm and said: "Come quick."

He called an ambulance and followed the man into a tenement house where Mrs. Louise Sullivan was giving birth.

Recalling a lecture on obstetrics at the police training school, Friemann told the prospective father, Thomas F. Sullivan, to boil some water. Then he washed his hands and delivered Mrs. Sullivan's baby girl.

But his job was not done. The umbilical cord was wrapped about the baby's neck and she was strangling. Friemann called for a razor blade, dipped it into the boiling water to sterilize it, cut the cord, spanked the baby until she squealed, then tied the ends of the cord.

By the time the doctor arrived it was all over.

MOTORISTS, PASSENGERS UNHURT IN TWO WRECKS

Five persons in two automobiles escaped injury at 9 p. m. Wednesday when they collided one mile west of the Route 56-104 intersection west of Circleville. One of the cars was driven by Altee DeWeese, 27, Circleville R. F. D. 2, and the other by Curtis Stoer, Williamsport R. F. D. 1. Both were Fords.

Deputy Sheriff Earl Weaver, who investigated, said that Stoer failed to see DeWeese stopping to turn in a lane. The Stoer car hit the rear end of the DeWeese automobile. Three others were in the DeWeese car addition to the driver.

An auto driven by E. E. Nothstine, Island road, and one owned by Jacob Davis, Circleville, were involved in a collision at 8 a. m. Thursday on the Island road at the Dry Run bridge about five miles from Circleville. No one was hurt.

Tells of 'Fix'

SOFT-SPOKEN, ex-convict George Weinberg, 37, takes the stand again in the policy racket trial of James J. Hines in New York to accuse the Tammany district leader of "breaking" six police officers who persisted in raiding Harlem policy games. Weinberg, shown leaving court, earlier testified that Hines had accepted $500 a week or more to protect the $200,000,000 Harlem policy racket run by the late Dutch Schultz.

DEWEY WITNESS NAMED "THIEF"

Hines' Attorney Assails "Squealer" for Taking $300,000

NEW YORK, Aug. 25—(UP)—The most damaging witness the state has yet produced against James J. Hines, Tammany boss charged with protecting Dutch Schultz's $200,000,000 policy racket, was accused in cross-examination today of stealing $300,000 from the racket.

With withering sarcasm and roars that echoed off the courtroom walls, Lloyd Paul Stryker, two-fisted chief defense counsel for Hines, attacked the credibility of George Weinberg, business manager for the Schultz mob who turned state's evidence in admitted hope of leniency.

The hawk-faced Weinberg, who endured with stoicism the opening of cross-examination yesterday, was shaken by the force and fire of today's ordeal. His once folded hands twisted and fluttered as Stryker drove home his points. He looked appealingly to District Attorney Thomas E. Dewey and got no help.

The climax came during testimony about what became of the $780,000 net profit the Schultz mob made during 156 days in 1932, when Hines allegedly was receiving $250 to $1,000 a week from the racket for protecting it from police and magistrates.

At first Weinberg said Schultz took $275,000 from the net, leaving approximately $505,000. The $275,000 was needed, he said, because Schultz was a fugitive and required the money for lawyers and other purposes. Then, as Stryker dug into the finances of the mob, with some assistance from Justice Ferdinand Pecora, Weinberg altered his testimony to say that the withdrawal was from the $505,000. Finally, in a thorough state of confusion, he said the money was taken from a total of $330,000. Stryker leaped on the contradictions.

FRANCE TO WIN JOHN BULL'S AID IN CASE OF WAR

New Statement Of Policy To Be Result Of Many Conferences

VEILED THREAT NOTED

Official Circles Anxious Over Sudeten District Conditions

LONDON, Aug. 25—(UP)—The British government intends to emphasize a previous veiled warning that invasion of Czechoslovakia, involving France in war, might also involve Britain, according to every indication today.

Two days of conferences which Viscount Halifax, foreign minister, held at the foreign office over the European situation made it seem probable that the government intended to make a new statement of policy.

Such a statement, it was believed, would reaffirm Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's declaration in the House of Commons on March 24 in which he said Britain intends to fulfill her obligations to France.

France Obligated

France is bound by treaty to go to Czechoslovakia's aid if the latter is invaded. Britain is obligated to stand by France in such eventuality.

The statements would be designed to ease the situation in Europe by convincing Germany that annexation of the Sudeten area of Czechoslovakia would not be feasible because it would provoke a general European war.

Sir John Simon, chancellor of the exchequer, in a speech at Llanark on Saturday, is expected to underline Britain's adherence to the March 24 declaration, which foreign office spokesmen declare represents an unflinching line of British policy.

The foreign office conferences indicated Britain's anxiety over Czechoslovakia and Spain and her determination to seek a way out.

Lord Halifax conferred first with Simon and Frank T. A. Ashton-Gwatkin, chief of the economic section of the foreign office, who returned by airplane from Prague, where he has been a member of the mission of Viscount Runciman, British mediator in the minorities dispute.

The latter talks lasted for two hours and Ashton-Gwatkin gave (Continued on Page Two)

"MAD BUTCHER" MAY BE QUEER MAN NAMED GUS

CLEVELAND, Aug. 25—(UP)—Detectives turned their attention to three new torso-murder figures today in their search for "The Mad Butcher of Kingsbury Run."

They sought a middle-aged, questioned known as "Gus," questioned a W.P.A. worker who boasted that he knew "all about" the beheadings and hunted a hospital orderly who has boasted of his prowess in dissecting animals.

Detective Peter Merylo, assigned exclusively to the mysterious case for more than two of the four years in which 13 persons have been decapitated, dropped all other clues in an effort to find "Gus." The strange recluse was understood to have collected discarded fish boxes of the sort which contained parts of the Mad Butcher's 12th victim—a man—found nine days ago on a Lake Erie waterfront dump.

The W.P.A. worker, only one of the three detained, was found in a beer parlor boasting that he knew "all about the torso man," but he refused to talk to anyone but Patrolman Fred Bartlett, suspended in a shooting.

Officers placed little stock in a telephone tip about the orderly, who, they were told, left a hospital recently. They recalled, however, that one of the only two torso victims ever identified—Edward Andressy, 25—had been an orderly himself.

six vice chairmen of the executive committee. The others named were Judge Hugh L. Nichols, Batavia; James W. Huffman, Columbus; Edward T. Dixon, Cincinnati; Robert Schengen, Hamilton, and Donald Short, Mercer county.

Four vice chairwomen were named and two will be added later. Those selected were Miss Thelma Slack, Ashland; Mrs. Marguerite McCollum, Granville; Mrs. Beryl White, Darke county; and Miss Zula Goodman, Summit county.

Hanefeld Renamed
State Agriculture Director Earl H. Hanefeld, Ottawa, was re-elected without opposition for his sixth term as chairman of the state central committee.

Albert A. Horstman, Dayton, who had been mentioned prominently for the chairmanship was retained as vice chairman.

Mrs. Mary Boyle Burns, Toledo; Miss Nellie Dunlap, Hillsboro; and Miss Margaret O'Neill, Girard, were selected as vice chairwomen. Miss Marie Dickson, Steubenville, was re-elected secretary of the central committee. Her retention and that of Hanefeld were interpreted as "harmony gestures" toward the Davey faction as both supported the governor in the primary campaign.

After organization the central committee, in effect, delegates the majority of its powers to the executive body.

The executive committee was enlarged by allowing each district committeeman and woman to name a member of the executive committee at-large to serve with them. This enabled Mrs. Smith, John F. Nolan, Steubenville, and other leading Davey workers to keep a foothold in the party machine.

Chairman Limbach was delegated to fix dates for the state party platform. It was understood it would be held in late September, a week or so after the Republican meeting which is scheduled for Sept. 14-15.

There was no evidence of the bitter primary wounds at the primary meeting. Poulson sat observant throughout, but took no active part in the proceedings.

Two Votes of Thanks
Just prior to adjournment Francis W. Durbin, Lima, an ardent Davey worker, moved that a vote of thanks be given Poulson and Mrs. Smith. The motion carried by a voice vote.

In urging abolition of the treasurer's post on the central committee and the consolidation of power in an executive committee treasurer Sawyer said:

"No money is to be distributed or collected unless it passes through the hands of the executive committee treasurer. I am going to ask that periodical public reports be made of all collections and disbursements of this committee."

In a discussion of the primary Sawyer said:

"I've been through a fight, but so far as I am concerned it has left no bruises. I welcome the support of all Democrats and independent Republicans who agree with what I stand for regardless of whether they were for or against me in the primary."

All Offers Accepted
Sawyer said he had offers of support from all county leaders and had accepted them as tendered in "good faith."

The nominee emphasized a plan for frank public dealing by pointing out the meeting had been thrown open to the press. Republican committee meetings traditionally are closed.

Senator Robert J. Bulkley was the only candidate for an important office who did not attend the meeting. He is vacationing in Canada, but wired Sawyer that he was in accord with his efforts and "hoped for complete party harmony."

GAS TAX FUND LISTED
Distribution of $6,000 in gasoline tax funds, received from the state, was announced Thursday by Forrest Short, county auditor. Each township in the county will receive $400.

Elsewhere on the world's trouble fronts:—
SPAIN—The month-long battle on the Ebro river front continued deadlocked, with an estimated 30,000 Loyalist and 60,000 Insurgents engaged. Casualties were estimated as high as 50,000, including prisoners. The Insurgents continued to make small gains southwest of Madrid in their drive toward the Almaden mercury mines but their main thrust was slowed to a crawl.

CHINA—Japanese armies, stalemated in their main offensive up the Yangtze toward Hankow, began an extended enveloping movement designed to cut off the former provisional capital from both North and South. Taking Jui-chang, the invaders fought their way close to Nanchang in their drive to cut the rail lines south of Hankow but their progress toward the capital from the North was slow.

FORMER DEPUTY NAMED KILLER OF ANOTHER MAN

AUBURN, Me., Aug. 25.—(UP)—

—Paul (Buddy) Dwyer, 19, serving a life sentence for the same murder as that of which former Deputy Sheriff Francis Carroll was convicted, has accused Carroll of a third murder, state prison officials revealed today.

Carroll, like Dwyer, is serving a life sentence for the slaying of Dr. James G. Littlefield, South Paris physician. He also was accused of but not tried for the murder of the doctor's wife. Now, prison officials said, Dwyer has accused Carroll of slaying John W. Penney, Auburn filling station proprietor.

Prison officials said Dwyer made his accusation "about two months ago." It was not disclosed, however, until today after the brother of a former state official in an affidavit had placed Carroll at Penney's isolated filling station on the night of last May 18, the night on which Penney was beaten to death.

FORTNER FINED $100 ON DRUNK DRIVING CHARGE

Clinton Fortner, Jackson township, pleaded guilty in Common Pleas court Thursday to an indictment charging that he operated a motor vehicle when intoxicated, and paid a fine of $100 and costs. Judge Meeker Terwilliger suspended Fortner's right to drive for 30 days.

Trial of Mr. Fortner on the charge had been scheduled for next Wednesday.

PENSIONS MAILED

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25.—(UP)—With 85,000 checks to old age pensioners in the mails, the division of Aid for the Aged announced today that all of the 112,000 checks would be delivered on time this month despite the financial difficulties of the division. It was necessary to borrow $415,000 from the general revenue fund to meet the state's share of the monthly bill—about $1,300,000.

'QUEEN'S' WILL FILED

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(UP)—Pearl White, queen of the daredevils of the silent screen, bequeathed a large part of her $500,000 estate to the Greek friend who was the constant companion of her last years, according to a 1937 will filed in surrogate's court today.

Scientists at the University of Missouri have developed tomatoes which are seedless.

Victim of Revenge Beating?

PROSECUTING Attorney Smith Troy of Olympia, Wash., announces he has obtained "full confessions" from three of four men accused in the attempted mutilation of 37-year-old Irving Baker, former coast guard officer, who was beaten because of his alleged attentions to a middle-aged society doctor's young wife. Troy said that three men admitted complicity in the abduction-attack allegedly led by Dr. K. W. Berry, 54. While Mrs. Berry stood by her husband, Mrs. Baker visited her husband at the hospital, where they are shown above. Mrs. Baker called the doctor's charges of Baker's alleged attentions to Mrs. Berry "ridiculous."

REDS ANGERED BY HEAVY FINE FOR McKECHNIE

CINCINNATI, Aug. 25.—(UP)—

—Cincinnati Reds' officials today considered forwarding a formal protest to President Ford Frick of the National league against the $150 fine which he levied on Manager Bill McKechnie for protesting a decision at St. Louis Monday.

Reds officials termed the fine "excessive." They said they might seek to have it rescinded or reduced, not for financial reasons but to preserve McKechnie's record for good conduct on the field.

McKechnie was banished from the park at St. Louis for a violent protest of a decision at home plate on Pitcher Paul Derringer. It was the first time in four years that McKechnie had been chased.

Frick said the heavy fine was levied for the use of "abusive language" to Umpire George Barr.

FISHING WARDEN SEES THAT BIG ONE GET AWAY

EL PASO, Tex. (UP)—R. A. Stubblefield primarily is a game warden—not a fisherman—but here is his story of the big one he let get away:

Stubblefield approached a Negro fishing in a canal. He spied nearby a three-pound bass tied to a stick in the mud. It would have been illegal to catch the bass.

"How's luck?" Stubblefield gingerly asked his "prospect."

"You know, boss," the Negro said, "I've had an awful hard time here. I've been fishin' for perch, and this big bass here has been stealin' my bait all day."

"So, I just tied him up here on the bank to keep him off my bait so I could catch some perch—but I'm through fishin' now, so I might as well turn him loose again."

Gaping, Stubblefield watched the man loose the fish, and the evidence swam into the stream while the fisherman took his perch and started home.

INDICTMENT DISMISSED

Indictment against Senora Dawson, Circleville, charging forgery, was dismissed in Common Pleas court Wednesday.

George E. Gerhardt, county prosecutor, said the indictment was dismissed on insufficient evidence.

TWO MEN KILLED IN LOCOMOTIVE BLAST AT XENIA

XENIA, Aug. 25.—(UP)—An engineer and fireman on a Pennsylvania railroad passenger train were killed at Selma, nine miles northeast of here, today when an explosion occurred in the cab of the locomotive.

The dead were:

J. L. Breen, engineer, Columbus.

R. H. Mitchell, fireman, Columbus.

Pennsylvania officials immediately dispatched investigators to the scene of the accident to determine the cause of the explosion.

A railroad spokesman said: "Insofar as we can determine after a preliminary investigation the boiler did not explode. We believe the trouble occurred in the fire box."

Breen and Mitchell were both blown from the cab, but other trainmen and passengers did not become aware of the accident until the train came to a natural stop approximately four miles from the point where the explosion occurred.

Neither the locomotive or any cars were derailed.

After a delay of approximately 45 minutes another engine was secured and the train continued into Dayton. The passenger was enroute to Indianapolis and St. Louis.

MARS EXERCISES

EUROPE will not sleep soundly during those German military games now in progress. A million men or more are now in the field with their war equipment, and the question is what will they do. Will they merely indulge in the usual maneuvers and try their weapons, or will Hitler take advantage of the situation, decide that "Der Tag" has come again, and send them sweeping across the Czechoslovakian border in the beginning of the long-expected "Drive to the East"?

Across that border the Czechs have almost half a million of their own men in arms, as they have been for months, ready to meet such an onslaught. They are as brave as the Germans, and perhaps as well trained, though lacking the complete equipment of the Nazi forces. They would fight heroically for their country, but would be doomed to defeat unless powerful friends came to their aid. If help came, another general war would be in progress.

It is probably safe to guess that Hitler will not strike now, when the world's eyes are fixed on Germany. It would be more like him and his advisers, if determined on conquest, to wait until things quiet down and the Czechs are off their guard, or wearied and weakened by long waiting for the blow.

Hitler, too, is a good psychologist, and probably not disposed to fight if he can get what he wants in any other way. He may still hope for a peaceful conquest.

FRIENDLY MANILA

THAT celebration in Manila of the fortieth anniversary of the American occupation of the Philippines was worth a little attention. It seems that the natives had far more to do with it than did the American officials and civilians. Paul V. McNutt, high commissioner representing the United States, says it was one of the most impressive celebrations of any kind he has seen anywhere.

"Its sincerity," he reports, "was so marked that the response on the part of Americans here and at home will be in full measure. It is not often that we see expressions of gratitude in this world, and when they come sincerely they are heartwarming." President Quezon himself praised the American Philippine policy.

Those are the Filipinos who lately were clamoring for immediate independence. They seem to have seen a light, and realize better than they used to how much they need American protection and trade. The Japanese attack on China seems responsible for this changed attitude.

"There is no absolutism in America," says a political orator. Huh! How about Ma?

'ROUND CIRCLEVILLE . Hour by Hour

PAGES from the Diary of an Antiquated Reporter:

Up to a grand morning, and the hour being a little too early to collect the mail, did crank wagon and take off for short jaunt through the rural sections. Now, I know that Fall is just around the corner. Saw farmers cutting corn in three fields. Back, then, from the glorious countryside to turn attention to the daily stint. Met Ed Sensenbrenner at the post and provided a lift to his shop of jewels and timepieces.

Met Harold Grant and learned that his golf game has gone to pieces again. Chatted with Doc Phillips, telling him of Harold's misery, and he asked, "What golf game?" Passed the time of the day with Reed Shafer and bowed to Bob Immel, in from his elevator at Yellowbud. Bob invited me down for the shooting this Fall, but I told him that I doubt time enough remains to domesticate pheasants for my marksmanship.

Dropped in for a chat with Walk Baughman, who the first of next month will step out of the theatre business. Walk has been in the profession 51 years. And in that more than a half century he has never had a vacation. Now, he is planning to spend the coming Winter in Florida. Well, if anyone is entitled to a vacation that person must be Walk. When he took over the Grand theatre it was a little more than a barn. Even had gas footlights. You modern folk just try to imagine that.

Met Denny Pickens on the street, he being all smiles and looking better than he ever did before retirement. Had just completed mowing his yard and washing his own automobile. Denny is looking forward to the Fall when he will go to Florida for the Winter. Intends leaving the week after Pumpkin Show.

Wonder why it is that a taxi driver believes he owns the world? Probably because he knows that other drivers are generally timid and that his bluff will work. I have seen taxi drivers violate every traffic law in the list along with every rule of common courtesy. I have seen some indication of the disease taking hold here, but nothing serious as yet. The real offenders are in the cities.

DIET AND HEALTH

How You Can Best Prepare Child for School

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
ONCE MORE the breath of fall is in the air, the haze hangs on the hills, the breezes rustling through the trees make a dry sound which hints that the sap of spring is gone from the leaves.

And there are other signs—returning vacationists bringing the young home from lake and mountain and seashore; wardrobes being prepared for the classroom; teachers bracing themselves for another session; text-books making their appearance in the office.

And so once more it becomes my duty—and I think it is the most important function of a column like this—to advise about the preparation of the child for the school year.

I often am asked to name the most important health rules. And my interlocutors are invariably surprised when, instead of outlining a course of prohibitions for diet and dress and recommendations for exercise and sleeping on porches, I say instead, "Immunization of the body against contagious diseases."

This is especially true of the very young. And to send a young child to school for the first time without immunization against diphtheria, is like sending him into a den of wild animals.

Contagious diseases flourish in crowds. That is, of course, nothing more than axiomatic. And contagious diseases are especially likely to attack the very young. Also axiomatic. But combine the two—the very young and the crowd—and you get the first days of school.

All Develop Immunity
As time goes on we all develop immunity to the common diseases—sometimes by acquiring the disease itself (nearly every adult is immune to measles because nearly every adult had it when young), or by what is known as "contact" immunity.

This may be explained by pointing out that a large group of human diseases are spread by carriers. Diphtheria is an example. Some people carry around diphtheria germs in the mouth or nose. They may be attenuated in virulence, and people associating with these people get small doses of the germs which they can kill off and gradually develop an immunity by contact.

School contacts create a great many of the contact immunities in the children. In an, fourth or fifth grade over half the pupils would be found immune to diphtheria, although they never had it. I am referring to the days before the widespread use of immunization by toxoid.

Nowadays we want to create immunity to diphtheria before the dangers of exposure have begun to operate. We do not want to wait for contact immunity to develop. How it should be done will be described in an article later in the week.

IMAGINATION PRICELESS

KEEN IMAGINATION is a priceless ingredient of expert defense. Such plays as knocking out the side entry for the dummy's suit are easy for most players when the crucial cards are clearly in sight. But only the finished cardman is likely to spring such a defensive coup when the suit and its indispensable entry are invisible, in the declarer's closed hand.

One-Heart was bid here by North as dealer. East overcalled with 1-Spade. South passed and West called 2-Clubs. North next bid 2-Diamonds. South 2-No Trump and North 3-No Trump.

The heart 3 was led by West. The 9 was played from dummy and East won with the J. East considered the situation very seriously before playing the next card. As West failed to lead spades, the K was no doubt in the South hand and very little else except possibly club stoppers. Based on this deduction, East laid down his spade A and followed with the spade Q, to rob South of any entries for finesse. He figured he could afford to give declarer two spade tricks in order to keep him on the board. This play limited declarer to eight tricks, four in diamonds, two in hearts and two in spades.

If East returns a club at the second trick and continues the suit, South later gets two clubs, as the spade K enables him to enter his hand.

CHAPTER 47

NOEL WAS so astonished by Nick's unexpected words, when he told her he was taking her out of the country with him, that for a moment she couldn't speak.

"Of course I intend to marry you," Nick went on in his tight voice. "That can be arranged on shipboard. I think we had better go to the Riviera."

"You're mad—utterly mad," Noel exclaimed.

"Yes—about you. If I hadn't been, do you suppose I'd have done what I did? And now that I have you, do you think for one minute I'm going to let you go to that young doctor? Not me. Not Nick Luigi," he repeated.

"This is the twentieth century. A man can't force a girl to marry him. That time has long ago passed."

"Times may have changed, but men haven't," Nick said briefly. "There's a hundred different ways I could manage it. I could take you onto the ship on a stretcher, pretend you were ill with the aid of something to insure your being quiet. I could keep you in your cabin until the ship docked. Could either have a ceremony performed on the boat, or let it be understood that you were my wife. That I was taking you to Europe to some specialist."

"Nick, you wouldn't dare try a thing like that. You wouldn't dare," Noel exclaimed furiously. "Oh, wouldn't I?" he retorted. "I've gotten by with other things a lot more difficult," he went on. "There's no danger of a slip-up. None at all. However, you are right in one thing," he admitted, "the day of the racketeer is over. The government has become too smart for us. I'm anxious to settle down in one of the beauty spots of the world. I've got my pile, to say nothing of what you've got. We could have a very enjoyable life together."

"That's what you think!" Noel returned with spirit. She kept saying over and over to herself that Nick couldn't get away with this. If he slowed down again, she had made up her mind to leap from the car.

But the speedometer showed 55, now and then 60. If they were not close to town, he would have driven faster than that, Noel thought. But there might be some danger of a speed officer. "There are women," Nick began, glancing once at Noel's face, "who have found me interesting and not exactly hard to look at."

"I can believe that," Noel replied indifferently.

"I put my life in danger for you—don't you owe me something for that?"

"You're asking too much. Anything reasonable—" Noel let the sentence hang in mid-air.

"I'm only asking what I mean to have," Nick said grimly. Then he added, "You probably haven't realized it, but we're on our way to New Orleans. There's a fruit boat sailing at midnight. I believe we can make it."

Noel sat perfectly still. She knew nothing on earth would induce her to get on a boat at New Orleans, even if Nick succeeded in getting her there.

Nick was driving faster now. The speedometer jumped up to 60—65—70. Even with Nick's skillful handling of the wheel, Noel knew they were going at a most dangerous speed.

There was little chance of making him hear her now, but Noel did beg him to slow down. The speedometer registered 75. Noel thought Nick might have read her thoughts and knew that she had been thinking of leaping from the car. Perhaps that was why he was going at such a terrible speed, so she wouldn't dare risk it.

The car wasn't a very heavy one. Noel did not know the make of it, but there were times when it actually seemed to bounce in the air.

Gradually, it came to Noel why Nick didn't dare slacken his speed. Over the roar of the motor and the rush of the wind, she could hear a car behind them. It was evidently in pursuit. Nick didn't dare slow up!

Even at that, Noel thought their pursuers were gaining. She could hear the sound of the car more plainly now. It had a strange sound—not like an automobile. And yet what else could it be, she wondered.

Nick said between tight lips, "If those ruffians catch us, they won't stop at anything."

A sick shudder passed over Noel. Were their pursuers the men Nick had left tied up in the house?

"I've taken money," Nick was saying above the roar of the car, "any way I could get it. But I've never shed blood. Been squeamish about that. But these men are killers."

The pursuing car was still gaining. Noel carefully moved around so she could look through the glass at the rear. But all she could see was an immense cloud of dust, caused no doubt by Nick's car.

Then all at once something came hurtling through the dust, smothering, scuttling, charging like a thing possessed of demons. At last Noel could see what it was—a motorcycle. Then it couldn't be the men Nick had left behind tied up with ropes!

Noel glanced at Nick. His jaw was set grimly, he was hanging on to the wheel with all his strength and yet he must have known that his game was up.

And the next thing the motorcycle had roared past them in a whirling cloud of dust. Noel's heart sank as it disappeared. She had thought it was a motorcycle policeman, that she would be rescued. Now—what?

Then she came to the realization that Nick was slowing up. At last he brought the car to a complete stop. There was the motorcycle standing directly in the path of the car. A figure leaped from it in cap and goggles—ran over to the car just as Nick jumped out.

"Look out!" Noel screamed. "He has a gun."

A strange thing happened then. Noel had expected to hear a shot. Instead, she saw the revolver suddenly fly up in the air to land a few feet from where the two men now stood locked in a desperate grip.

It was the work of a minute for Noel to run and pick up the gun, removing it to a safe distance against a tree, concealing it under some leaves. She didn't intend for Nick to find it, and she knew he had given the other one to Vincent.

The two men were fighting desperately, dealing each other vicious blows right and left. But it was Nick who was losing under the onslaught of such terrific blows. He might even be killed, Noel thought. She didn't want that. She couldn't bear it. "Let him go," she cried frenziedly. "He hasn't harmed me. Stop—stop, I say!"

It seemed several minutes before her voice penetrated the mind of the man who was fighting Nick with such superhuman strength. His arms fell suddenly away. Nick staggered backward, reeled groggily for a moment, then regaining his balance, he limped painfully to his car.

Noel glanced at Nick's assailant. Then a cry came from her lips, "Julian, oh, Julian!"

He had taken off the goggles and cap and stood there, panting a little. In another minute he had a protecting arm around Noel.

"It seems that your friend is a better fighter than a doctor," Nick said wryly, as he leaned against the car. "He would have killed me if you hadn't stopped him."

"Nick, please go on to Italy, or wherever it was you were going," Noel's voice was pleading.

Nick glanced questioningly at Julian, then climbed painfully into his car. "We're even, I guess," he said to Noel. For a moment his eyes lingered on her. Then he drove off.

"I suppose I did go after him like a maniac," Julian said.

"You were wonderful," Noel exclaimed. She picked up the gun, then asked how he had managed to throw it out of Nick's hand.

"Jiu jitsu," he said with a smile. Then added, "Come on, I'm taking you home. And this time you're going."

Engagement of Couple Is Disclosed

Of interest to friends in Circleville is the announcement of the engagement of Miss Anne Davenport Tomlinson of Chillicothe to Mr. Alva Vattier Courtright, son of Dr. D. V. Courtright of E. Mound street.

Miss Tomlinson is the daughter of Mrs. Robert G. Tomlinson of 115 West Second street, Chillicothe, and a graduate of Oberlin college. Mr. Courtright, a graduate of Circleville high school and Cornell university, is associated with the Mead corporation in Chillicothe.

Miss Tomlinson is well known in Circleville having visited frequently at the home of Mrs. Frank Bennett, S. Court street.

Hosler-Hiles

Mrs. Estelle Hiles, of Logan, is announcing the marriage of her daughter, Ethel, to Mr. Harry R. Hosler, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hosler, Logan street.

The ceremony was performed Sunday, July 10, in Greenup, Ky., by the Rev. C. D. Lear, pastor of the Methodist church. The couple was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Dale Ankrom, also of Circleville.

Mrs. Hosler wore an aqua dress for her wedding.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Circleville high school in the class of 1934, is employed by the Pettit Tire and Battery shop.

The bride is a daughter of the late Rev. S. W. Hiles and Mrs. Hiles.

After Sept. 1 the newlyweds will reside at 1114 S. Pickaway street.

C. A. C. Features New Band

Due to many requests received, the Circleville Athletic club announces the engagement of Bob Fine and his orchestra of Columbus to continue a series of Fall Dances. Here is an opportunity to swing out to one of Ohio's leading dance bands which has played at many of the best dance spots. Those who enjoy real dancing should be at the C. A. C. Saturday night, for the opening dance. Lots of fun and entertainment is promised. The social plan will be continued.

Miss Patty Paige, who recently won the central Ohio swing song-contest, is an added feature of the band. Miss Paige, when only seven years of age, sang for Ted Lewis, Circleville's famous son.

Miss Teegardin Honored

Miss Mary Teegardin of near Ashville, bride-elect of September 10, and Miss Jane Slabaugh, whose marriage to Mr. Melvin Tilley of Columbus will take place September 1, shared honors Wednesday evening when two of their friends entertained for their pleasure.

Western Trip
Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dodd and daughter, Evon, of near Kingston have returned home after a three week's motor tour through several western states. They visited their son, Lt. D. D. Dodd, of Kanab, Utah. Lt. Dodd was formerly with the C. C. C. in Ohio and was transferred to Pipe Springs' Natural Monument, Ariz. His family resides in Utah.

While in the West, the Dodds visited such interesting places as Zion Park, Grand Canyon, Bryce Canyon, Boulder Dam, Salt Lake City, Yellowstone National Park, Las Vegas and many other noted spots.

Due to the extreme heat, they did not go to Los Angeles as planned. On their return home they met Mrs. Ollie Maxwell at Denver, Col., who returned with them. They visited Colorado Springs and Pike's Peak.

Anniversary Session
Members of the Jolly Time club gathered at the Coffee Shop, Wednesday, and celebrated the second anniversary of the club with a dinner party. The table was attractively arranged in the club colors, a large bowl of flowers forming the decorations. An anniversary cake with two burning candles was also on the table.

After the dinner hour, Mrs. George Bennett, club president, presented a reading, "Highlights of our Second Year". Six members were present including Mrs. F. E. Heraldson, Mrs. Russell Jones, Mrs. Hugh Baxter, Mrs. E. L. Figgatt, Mrs. Fred Fitzpatrick and Mrs. Bennett. Miss Ruby Lucas of Primrose, Ky. was a guest for the occasion.

A theatre party completed the entertainment for the evening. The next session of the club will be at the home of Mrs. Figgatt, Jackson township.

50th Anniversary
Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Eagleson of N. Pickaway street attended the celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Webster of Columbus, Tuesday, at Barnesville. They were married in that community 50 years ago. Mrs. Webster is a relative of Mrs. Eagleson.

More than 100 old friends and relatives were present for the affair, including four children and six grandchildren.

Mrs. Elma S. Bay of Columbus accompanied Mr. and Mrs. Eagleson to the party and returned home with them to spend the week.

EXPLORER SETS PERILOUS PEAK AS NEXT GOAL

Himalayas' Amne Machin
Believed To Match
Mt. Everest

CAPT. WINTHROP READY

Many Experiences Recalled
By Famed Officer Of British Army

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 25—(UP)—Capt. Robert C. C. Winthrop, 38-year-old explorer and adventurer who already has had a lifetime of thrilling brushes with death in far away corners of the world, is planning an expedition to unexplored Amne Machin peak in the Himalayas, he revealed during a visit here.

Winthrop, the mild-mannered son of a British army officer stationed in India, has been in nearly every country in the world, gone through scores of revolutions and seen sights that stagger the imagination in the role of explorer, adventurer, war correspondent, aviator and cameraman.

Now, while planning a Himalayan expedition to Amne Machin, a mountain he believes to be higher than Everest, Winthrop is working as a Hollywood technical director, checking accuracy of landscape, customs, manners and dress in foreign settings.

Unusual Sights His Hobby

Although he has had many close brushes with death, the rambling adventurer prefers to talk of the unbelievable sights he has seen.

He told how he bribed his way into the sanctuaries of the Holy Yurt by presenting Djelb Hutuktu, Chinese incarnate Buddha, with a 97-cent watch, made in America, which today rests on a gold cloth in the chamber of the holies in the ancestral shrine.

In old Tibet, Winthrop was guest of the Tibetan Buddha, who showed him his most treasured possession, a temple sanctuary where 50,000 alarm clocks, attended night and day by six natives, are constantly wound, set and sounded.

Equally unbelievable, Winthrop said, is the king's palace in the little known land of Nepal, the valley of 2,733 Buddhist temples. In that ancient palace, in place of Greek statuary, the walls and corridors are lined with hundreds of American slot machines.

His Majesty Hits Jackpot

While there, Winthrop said, he saw His Majesty Maharajadheraja Tribhubana Bir Bahadur Shum Shere Jung Deva, King of Nepal, play machine after machine, downcast when he lost and smiling and tense when he occasionally hit a jackpot. The famed explorer discovered the lost river of Tibet while in Nepal.

Winthrop was born in Myderabad, Huhshigoda, India. At the age of 7, his parents sent him from India to Kansas City, Mo. where he attended school with relatives until he was 16. He later spent 11 summers with the Ozark Research Society in the Ozark Mountains tracing the origin of the backwoodsmen to Virginia.

During the World War Winthrop served in the British flying corps, and later flew for Chiang Kai-shek in China. He worked as war correspondent and took pictures of a score of South American revolutions and was on the scene during the Japanese invasions of China.

Winthrop returned to the United States in 1934 to marry a South Carolina girl. During the past year he has been working on a book to be published next spring.

Questions and Answers

Will you please print a recipe for a cake which uses only the yolks of eggs? Whenever I make a cake using only whites I never can use up all the yolks. I would like to make two cakes at one time.

This recipe will solve your problem. It calls for 4 egg yolks.

Gold Cake

- 2 C. cake flour
- 3 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 1/2 C. shortening
- 1 C. sugar
- 4 egg yolks
- 1/4 C. milk
- 1 tsp. vanilla
- 1/2 tsp. lemon extract

Sift flour, measure, add baking powder and salt, and sift together twice.

Cream the shortening, add sugar gradually and continue to beat until light and fluffy. Add well-beaten egg yolks to creamed mixture and blend well. Add dry ingredients alternately with milk, beating after each addition. Add flavorings. Pour batter into greased shallow pan (11x7x1 1/2 inches) and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for 35 to 40 minutes. Spread with butter frosting.

Can you suggest a good method for extracting onion juice? How do you remove the onion odor from your hands?

To extract onion juice, cut a slice from the onion, press the cut side hard against a grater, moving the onion slowly from side to side. The juice will run off the tip of the grater. Another method is to scrape the cut surface with the edge of a tablespoon, holding the spoon so that it will catch the juice.

The use of vinegar is a very successful means of removing the onion odor from your hands. Simply pour some vinegar on the hands, rub it in like you would hand lotion, and then wash with soap and water. You'll never be able to tell you prepared onions after this treatment.

I have been using a prepared mix for biscuits because I don't have "good luck" with home made biscuits. What is your standard recipe for baking powder biscuits?

This is our standard recipe for baking powder biscuits. Try this recipe and you'll have fluffy, delicious hot biscuits to serve to your family:

Baking Powder Biscuits

- 2 C. flour
- 4 tsp. baking powder
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 4 Tbsp. shortening
- 1/4 C. milk

Sift together flour, baking powder, and salt; add shortening and mix in thoroughly with fork. Add liquid to make soft dough. Turn out on floured board and toss lightly until outside looks smooth. Roll out 1/4-inch thick. Cut with floured biscuit cutter. Place on greased pan and bake in hot oven at 475 degrees about 12 minutes. Makes 16 two-inch biscuits.

What are condiments? Are they considered a food?

Condiments are not classed among foods, but they are known as food adjuncts. They are used to stimulate the appetite by adding flavor to food. Among the most important are salt, spices, and various flavorings. Salt, according to some authorities is called a food, being necessary to life.

Too Cautious Drivers Crash

OROVILLE, Cal. (UP)—When Hal Basim and O. J. Kober, both careful drivers, started backing their machines out of opposite driveways, they both took the usual precautions—except one. Both looked up the street and then down the street, to see that no other car was coming. Then they both continued backing until they crashed into each other, with the most precise timing.

FORMER WAYNE TOWNSHIP MAN, 79, DEAD IN EAST

Miss Bertha Jones, of Wayne township, has received word of the death of S. P. Propst in Princess Anne, Maryland on Aug. 17. Pneumonia caused death. Mr. Propst was 79 and a former resident of Wayne township. He removed to Princess Anne in 1919. Surviving are his widow and six children.

Theatres

AT THE CLIFTONA

The dramatic story of a woman who sacrifices her love for one man so that she might send another away to the war with a beautiful memory without shattering his ideals, is the stirring theme of "The Showdown Angel," starring Margaret Sullivan and James Stewart which starts tomorrow at the Cliftona Theatre.

Miss Sullivan brilliantly portrays the role of a gold-digging showgirl who marries the young, naive soldier, James Stewart, because she wants him to go to France with a memory and also because he is the first man who has ever looked upon her as a fine woman. Her other sweetheart of Walter Pidgeon, the dashing man-about-town, who knows and loves her for what she is.

All three performances are excellent as are those of the other players including Hattie McDaniel, Nat Pendleton, Alan Curtis, Sam Levene, Eleanor Lynn and Charles D. Brown.

The period of the picture is 1917 and all the color and excitement of the World War is included. H. C. Potter deftly directed the film.

"The Showdown Angel" also marks Miss Sullivan's debut as a singer and dancer.

AT THE GRAND

A fresh-air fiend, enamoured of the breezes that sweep over his lawns and across the swimming pool, Jack Haley likes to sleep out on the edge of the pool after a hot day's work at Twentieth Century-Fox. Jack is co-starred with Ann Sothern, Mary Boland and Edward Everett Horton in the comedy farce, "Danger—Love At Work," at the Grand Theatre Friday.

A sound sleeper, Jack slept undisturbed when a heavy fog rolled in from the Pacific one night. His watchful wife was awakened by the thick clouds of vapor, however, roused two of the servants and had them carry the cot, with Jack sound asleep on it, into the billiard room.

"Brings back the days of my misspent youth," Jack laughingly observed when he woke up with the pool-table staring him in the face.

AT THE CIRCLE

"Fury and the Woman," is now showing at the Circle theatre, with William Gargan and Mollie Lamont sharing top acting honors, is a drama of the "big woods" country of the Northwest. Gargan is cast as the tenderfoot who cleans out a gang of crooks.

In almost every catastrophe, you'll find unsung heroes. The bravery model usually goes to the fella who hollers the loudest and gets everybody excited when it should go to the quiet fella who informs the people of the danger they're in without gettin' 'em excited.

When my Uncle Orchie was clerkin' in a hotel, a nervous lady called down one night and said she couldn't sleep with a bunch of men runnin' up and down the hall. In a quiet voice, Uncle Orchie says "Well, if you can sleep while the hotel's on fire, a few firemen runnin' down the hall shouldn't bother you much!"

Article Discusses Duty Of Public Health Nurse

The following article was prepared by Miss Margaret Hunsicker, Pickaway county public health nurse. It deals with the duties of the health nurse.

Many persons are unable to understand how the public health nurse can find enough illness to keep her busy. Caring for the actual morbidity cases is a very small item in the general health educational program.

Public health nursing includes all nursing services organized by a community or an agency to assist in carrying out any or all phases of the public health program. Services may be rendered on an individual, family or community basis in home, school, clinic, business establishment or office of the agency.

The nurse can go on with her work only if she has the cooperation of the individual, family and community.

It is the responsibility of the public health nurse to assist in analyzing health problems and related social problems of families and individuals; to help them, with the aid of community resources, to formulate an acceptable plan for the protection and promotion of their own health and to encourage them to carry out the plan.

All the functions of the nurse put together form a well-rounded public health nursing program.

1. She helps to secure early medical diagnosis and treatment for the sick.

2. Renders or secures nursing care of the sick, teaches through demonstration and supervises care given by relatives and attendants.

3. Assists the family to carry out medical, sanitary and social procedures for the prevention of disease and the promotion of health.

4. Helps to secure adjustment of social conditions which affect health.

5. Influences the community to develop public health facilities and shares in community action leading to betterment of health conditions.

The functions of the public health nurse in relation to specific phases of the community health program are as follows:

1. Maternity—The nurse gets in touch with expectant mothers, emphasizes the need for examination by family doctor and for medical supervision throughout pregnancy. She assists in planning and preparing for confinement (if to be in the home), arranges for nursing care throughout confinement and postpartum periods and helps the family to carry out specific medical advice as to maternal hygiene and infant care.

2. Infant and Pre-school Health—The nurse assists in securing complete birth registration, medical supervision, dental examination and correction of defects for every child. She assists in the control of communicable diseases through teaching the recognition of early symptoms, the importance of isolation and the value of immunization. She aids the family in carrying out general and specific medical advice concerning proper feeding, hygiene and the daily regime of the child including instruction of parents in desirability of early establishment of sound health habits.

3. School Health—The nurse helps in developing a health education program based on the needs of the pupils and aids physician in examination of pupils and the interpretation of findings to teachers, parents and children. She teaches the value of adequate health supervision and facilities for medical and nursing care, assists in securing correction of defects, inspects pupils and instructs teachers, parents and pupils to observe and recognize deviations from normal health. The nurse observes and assists in adjustment of health situations in the homes of patients, teaches general hygiene and the prevention of disease and puts the family in touch with community resources. Promoting the maintenance of a healthful environment—physical, emotional and social, is an important general responsibility of the nurse in the school program. The nurse assists in the control of communicable diseases through teaching the recognition of early symptoms, the importance of isolation and the value of immunization.

4. Adult Health—The public health nurse encourages the periodic health examinations, teaches the fundamentals of personal hygiene in order to assist in the prevention and retardation of the diseases specific to adult life, and assists in securing early diagnosis and treatment of those diseases.

5. Communicable Disease—The nurse instructs parents, teachers, and other individuals and groups to recognize early symptoms, isolate suspicious cases and to carry out proper precautions to prevent the spread of infection.

6. Tuberculosis—The most important and apparently difficult task in the control of this disease is the finding of the cases and contacts. The public in general have an idea that tuberculosis is incurable so that it is best to not know whether he or she has it. Quite the contrary, however, the earlier the case is found, the better the chance for arresting the disease. The nurse helps to educate the public concerning unmet needs of the community for the prevention, control and care of tuberculosis. 7. Orthopedic (crippled) Service—The nurse observes and teaches others to recognize signs of orthopedic defects and helps to secure medical diagnosis and supervision. She secures skilled physiotherapy treatment under medical direction to prevent deformities and to secure maximum return of power to muscles and joints.

8. Vital Statistics—The nurse assists with morbidity and mortality studies which are useful in determining needs and formulating programs.

The nurse teaches the importance of correcting unsatisfactory conditions, the methods of immediate protection pending their correction, observes both the ventilation and screening in homes visited and teaches the importance of screens where insects prevail.

The duties of a county nurse can not be carried out to the fullest extent without the aid of every individual and group concerned.

How do you keep your floors looking so nice?

HEISTAND'S TRAPSHOOTING RECORD UNEQUALLED IN SPORT'S HISTORY

HILLSBORO MAN SHATTERS 1,066 TARGETS IN ROW

200 In Class AA Fails To Win For Ohioan At Vandalia

VANDALIA, O., Aug. 25.—(UP)—Joe Heistand, mild-mannered Ohio farmer, was the possessor today of the most amazing record in the history of trapshooting—and he still had a chance to better it.

He had shattered 966 consecutive targets from the 16-yard line in competition, for a percent score in every event an amateur can enter in the Grand American trapshooting tournament.

When Joe, who is 31, five feet, nine inches tall, resumes shooting from that distance in future tournaments, his record string will grow until he misses.

Heistand had a string of 766, surpassing the former world record of 714, held by a professional, when he resumed shooting yesterday. Sixty-six had been shattered in a meet two weeks ago, and since Friday, he had scored a perfect 700 in Grand American competition.

Yesterday he clicked off 200 more in the class AA championship, but failed to win the event. Phil Miller of French Lick, Ind., also had a perfect score. In the shoot-off of 100 targets both broke 75 at 16 yards. Then they moved to the 25-yard line. Heistand missed five targets and Miller took the event, missing one. Shoot-offs or misses do not count in a consecutive string record.

1,066 Targets Broken

Actually, Heistand has shattered 1,066 targets from the 16-yard mark. That includes the 75 in yesterday's shoot-off and 25 from one on Tuesday. Whatever he eventually winds up with will stand, perhaps forever, as the world amateur mark. Fred Tomlin of Glassboro, N. J., ran the professional record to 714 on Monday, then missed.

Heistand will be 32 on Nov. 20. The shooting farmer took a wife last March, Mary Custer, 22, of Good Hope, O., whom he met at a dance.

He owns a 200-acre farm at Hillsboro, O., and works in the field all winter. He plays golf in the middle 70's and next year hopes to play in the state amateur tournament.

No one can break his tournament mark of 900 straight breaks from the 16-yard line unless the Grand American program is changed. Only 900 targets are thrown from that distance. The rest of the program consists of doubles and handicap events.

Joe shoots today in the doubles event—two targets thrown simultaneously—from 16 yards and in the preliminary to tomorrow's blue ribbon event, the Grand American handicap, from 25 yards. Neither of those events will affect his record, however.

Ned Lilly, 22, of Staunton, Mich., will defend his North American doubles crown today, while J. W. Eggermann of Napierville, Ill., defends the preliminary handicap to the Grand American.

TRACK RECORDS MAY FALL DURING BEULAH'S MEET

COLUMBUS, Aug. 25.—Track records are expected to fall during Beulah Park's Fall meeting with the same regularity that marked the 25-day session held at the Grove City course in May when five track standards were shattered and one was tied.

The Fall meeting will get under way Saturday, Sept. 3, and will continue for 19 days, ending Sept. 24.

Chehalis and the aptly-named Fast Move led the assault on the records last Spring. Fast Move lowered the track standard for one mile to 1:37 3-5 and equalled Gold Thorne's record of 1:12 for six furlongs.

Chehalis, the good router, was timed in 1:45 2-5 for a mile and a sixteenth to establish a new record for that distance. He also set up a new mark of 2:06 for a mile and a quarter.

Injury To Grissom Hurts Chances of Cincinnatians

CINCINNATI, Aug. 25.—(UP)—The wise men of the diamond today shook knowing heads and termed the hopes of the Cincinnati Reds to overtake the pace-setting Pittsburgh Pirates as futile.

The gap of 5½ games which now separates the club would not be regarded as insurmountable except that Cincinnati faces the necessity of struggling through the next two weeks of crucial play without a southpaw pitcher on its staff.

Johnny Vander Meer, the chunky portside who skyrocketed to fame with two no-hit, no-run games early in the year, is in a hospital for a painful ear ailment. He has not worked since Aug. 10 and the date of his return was indefinite.

Yesterday the Reds lost the services of their only other left handed pitcher when Lee Grissom sprained an ankle sliding into second base in the second inning of a contest which Cincinnati took from Philadelphia 3 to 1.

Grissom, out of action more than half of the campaign with a series of ailments, was on the "comeback trail" and appeared ready to help the club when he was hurt again.

Hurt Stealing
Grissom suffered his injury during an attempted steal after he had driven in Cincinnati's second run with a single.

After Grissom was forced out of action "Jumbo Jim" Weaver came on and pitched heroic relief ball the rest of the way.

Weaver was forced to go to the box without the benefit of a warm-up, but the big right-hander proved the complete master of the Phils and allowed only five hits the remainder of the way. Philadelphia's lone run came in the ninth inning.

Hugh Mulcahy was on the mound for the Phils and permitted only five hits, and the Reds combined them effectively to score one run in each of the first three innings.

By virtue of the triumph yesterday and the defeat of the New York Giants, Cincinnati moved to within a scant one-half game of second place.

The Reds were scheduled to play a double-header against the pesky Boston Bees today. "Bucky" Walters and Ray Davis were slated to hurl for Cincinnati with Danny MacFayden and Jim Turner opposing them.

ADKINS, CRAMER HORSES VICTORS AT LONDON FAIR

Cincinnati horses carried off some major prizes at the Madison county fair in London, Thursday.

Catherine's Choice, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Paul E. Adkins, won second place in a saddle horse stake, one of the biggest events of the fair. Dick Vaughn handled the horse, which many say will become a champion before the Summer is ended.

Dorothy Bob, mare owned by Jack Cramer, Pinkney street, was second in a three year old event. The winning time was 2:08.

JOCKEY FATOR BETTER MONTREAL, Aug. 25.—(UP)—

Jockey Elmer Fator, who was severely injured in a spill at Blue Bonnets race track Saturday, is improving steadily. Royal Victoria hospital officials said today. Fator suffered a concussion and an injured hip.

YESTERDAY'S HERO — Curt Davis of the St. Louis Cardinals who shut out the Brooklyn Dodgers with a single hit and just missed pitching a perfect game.

JOLLIERS WIN WITH BIG RALLY IN FRAME FIVE

Circleville Oils Play Tight Ball Until Fatal Inning; Two Hits Given

Bronzeville Jolliers put over seven runs in their half of the fifth inning Wednesday evening to win an 11-4 ball game from the unfortunate Circleville Oils. The score was tied at 4-4 when the Jolliers strode to the rubber. A mixture of errors, a walk and three hits gave the Jolliers their markers.

The Circleville Oil team, represented by Williamsport youths, started the season as one of the strongest contenders in the loops, but fell by the wayside because many of its best players did not appear to play consistently.

Tonight's game pits the Purina Feeds against the Glitt food market.

PUERTO RICAN IMPRESSIVE IN RETURN SCRAP

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(UP)—Pedro Montanez, Puerto Rican lightweight, was back on the big time today after an absence of more than a year.

Defeated in a lightweight title fight last year by Lou Ambers, Montanez returned to action last week with an impressive victory at a small club. Last night he climbed into the ring at Madison Square Garden and scored a five-round technical knockout victory over Orville Drouillard, rugged battler from Windsor, Ont.

Over 6,000 fans saw Referee Arthur Donovan halt the bout after Drouillard had been floored twice, once in the third round and again in the fifth.

FAVORED CLUB SWINGERS OUT OF PUBLIC MEET

CLEVELAND, Aug. 25.—(UP)—The long shots and dark horses today were in command of the National Public Links golf tournament.

Already out of the running were the medalist and the 1934 and 1937 winners. Fourteen of the 16 survivors are unknowns as far as this championship is concerned. The two whose names already are on the record books are Andy Szwedko, a husky Pittsburgh steel worker who was defeated in last year's semi-finals by Bruce McCormick, of Los Angeles, and Lloyd Nordstrom of Davenport, La., the 1935 medalist.

After what happened on "Woe-ful Wednesday," it was highly probable that long shots would predominate after today's two 18-hole rounds which will trim the field to four.

The 36-hole semi-finals will be played tomorrow and the final on Saturday.

Bunt, Walk Keep Davis From Perfect Ball Game

NEW YORK, Aug. 25.—(UP)—Maybe the Chicago Cubs would have been better off if they had let St. Louis keep Dizzy Dean. The Cubs shelled out $185,000 and three players—Pitchers Curt Davis and Clyde Shoun and Outfielder Tuck Stainback—for Dizzy. He has scrambled and picked his spots to win six games this season against one defeat.

Davis, a big right-hander who will be 32 in September, has won 10 and lost 6. Shoun's record isn't so brilliant—he's won three and lost five but has functioned notably as a relief hurler on several occasions. With a team like the Cubs behind them, their records would have been better had they stayed in Chicago.

Davis almost entered baseball's Hall of Fame yesterday. He pitched a one-hit game against the Brooklyn Dodgers and if it hadn't been for Ernie Koy's bunt in the second and a walk he gave Lavagetto in the fifth, he would have turned in a perfect ball game. The Cards won 5-0.

Koy Beats Bunt
Koy, a fleet runner, beat out a bunt after Davis had pitched a perfect first inning. The next nine men after Koy went down in order. Then came Lavagetto's walk and after that, first base remained untenanted—13 up and 13 down.

The National league leading Pittsburgh Pirates increased their lead over the second-place New York Giants to six games. They whipped Boston 6-2 while the Cubs whipped the Giants 6-1. Vance Page, a rookie, left the New Yorkers down with four hits.

Cincinnati, in third place, drew to within half a game of the Giants with a 3-1 victory over the Phillies. Manager Bill McKechnie was fined $150 for alleged abusive language toward Umpire George Barr at St. Louis on Monday when he was ejected from the field for the first time in four years.

The New York Yankees increased their American league lead to 12 games by splitting their second successive double-header with the White Sox. The Sox took the opener 8-5 but the Yankees came back and won the nightcap 11-1 behind Monte Pearson's five-hit hurling.

Second-place Boston was defeated 5-3 by Cleveland. The Indians moved to within a single game point of the Red Sox. Bruce Campbell was the big gun of the Indian victory with two homers that brought in three runs. Mel Harder scattered ten hits to the Sox.

Washington scored 8-6 over St. Louis to sweep a two-game series.

TWENTIETH YEAR AT CAMPGROUND TO BE OBSERVED

Special Program Arranged For Friday Evening At Mt. Of Praise

SOUVENIRS AVAILABLE

Newsboy Evangelist Talks At Thursday Evening Meeting

An anniversary program will be presented at the Mount of Praise, E. Ohio street, Friday evening, in commemoration of the 20th anniversary of the establishment of the campground by the Churches of Christ in Christian Union of Ohio. Evening services on the campground begin at 8:15 o'clock.

The Rev. T. M. Anderson, evangelist, will deliver the anniversary address. The camp ground was established 20 years ago. The first tabernacle erected for the camp is now used for a restaurant. Visitors lived in tents and cooking was done on an open furnace. There are now 25 cottages on the grounds, eight large dormitories, two for men, two for women and four for family groups, a young people's tabernacle and a central tabernacle. The large tabernacle seats 3,000 persons. It has been filled for every evening service. Many improvements were made on the grounds this year, including enlargement of the tabernacle, erection of a new dormitory and construction of a new roadway to the grounds from Clinton street.

Souvenirs Provided
The Rev. E. A. Keaton, camp moderator, announced that souvenir bookmarks will be sold in connection with the anniversary program. Visitors are asked to bring contributions of 20 cents each. The funds will be used to pay the cost of improvements this year.

The Rev. Harry Black, Los Angeles, Cal., known as the Newsboy Evangelist, will speak Thursday evening. The Rev. Mr. Black was a newsboy before becoming a preacher.

The Rev. E. H. Stillion, evangelist, will preach on Saturday and Sunday nights. Services Sunday morning and afternoon will be conducted by the Rev. Mr. Anderson.

Returned missionaries will speak in a missionary program to be held Saturday afternoon in charge of the Rev. Charles Slater, evangelist. A collection will be taken for foreign missionary work. The Camp closes Sunday.

All available room on the campgrounds has been rented for next year, and there is a large waiting list, officials reported.

4-H CLUB YOUTHS GAIN HIGHEST MARKET PRICES WITH LIVESTOCK

$11.40 OFFERED FOR STEERS AT LOCAL AUCTION

Prices On Cattle Mart Go 25 Cents Above Last Week's Bid

Two steers raised by 4-H club members brought top price on Circleville's livestock auction Wednesday.

One steer raised by Philip Reichelderfer, Washington township, sold for $11.40 a hundred. The steer weighed 1,140 pounds. The second highest price went to Warren McDaniels, also of Washington township, who sold a steer weighing 810 pounds at $10.60. Both of the steers were purchased by Charles Hunn, meat dealer.

Prices on the local cattle market were about 25 cents a hundred higher than last week. Officials reported a better grade of stock was listed on the sale. Medium to good steers and heifers sold from $6 to $8.50.

Hog prices were lower. Good to choice hogs ranged from $8.45 to $8.55 as compared with a top of $8.85 last week.

Another Battaglia Slain In New Chicago Gang War

CHICAGO, Aug. 25—(UP)—Paul Battaglia, 44, one of a dozen Battaglias who made the old "42 gang" notorious during prohibition days, was found slain early today in a West side alley. He was the 10th victim of gang vengeance in Chicago during the last two months and the third Battaglia to die by gangland guns since 1931.

He was found on top of a pile of trash by a watchman. He had been shot once behind the right ear. His right trouser leg was rolled up as if he had been dragged some distance. Police said he undoubtedly had been killed on a "one-way ride," dumped from an automobile, and dragged into the alley.

They have found little evidence that any of the 10 slayings were related and have been unable to explain them. None of the killers have been captured. In ruthlessness the killings recall the gangland outrages of the prohibition era when Al (Scarface) Capone ruled the Chicago underworld.

Police Record Long Battaglia had a long police record, dating from 1923, but Bureau of Identification officers had difficulty in tracing his background. They frankly admitted they were confused by a score of records with criss-cross references to brothers, cousins and other kin—on the Battaglia clan.

Police Capt. John Egan said Battaglia may have been involved in a dispute among West side gamblers, possibly as the result of recent holdup.

Egan said a Social Security card had been found in Battaglia's pocket. Also in his pocket was an auto license card issued to his brother, Tony.

Both were known hoodlums and members of the "42 Gang," so-called because it originally had 42 members. It has been wiped out. Police identified Paul and Tony as brothers of August (Auge) Battaglia, who was shot and killed New Year's Day, 1931, on a South Side street. They also were identified as brothers of Sam Battaglia, leader of the "42 Gang" during the late 20's and a known liquor runner.

Egan believed Paul and Tony also were brothers of Frank Battaglia, who was killed by gangsters in March, 1932. His body was found in a ditch on the outskirts of the city.

That relationship was denied by

New York G-Head

DWIGHT BRANTLEY (above) has been selected by Director J. Edgar Hoover, of the G-Men, to head the metropolitan New York bureau of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Brantley, who was attached to the Kansas City office, succeeds Reed Vetterli, who resigned to enter private business.

Tony when he was questioned by police early today. "Frankie wasn't my brother," he said, "because Paul was only the second one of my brother's killed. Gee, the second, what'll I do now."

Sir Walter Scott regarded "Guy Mannering" as his best work. It was also written more rapidly than any of his other books, being completed in six weeks.

200 AT PICNIC OF METHODISTS

Seven Oak Grove, West Of Circleville, Scene Of Gathering

About 200 persons attended the Pickaway County Methodist Brotherhood picnic held Wednesday evening at Seven Oak grove, four miles west of Circleville.

Serving of a basket supper was preceded by games. Members of the Mt. Pleasant Brotherhood piled up such a score in a softball game that a reorganization was necessary to make more evenly matched teams. In addition to softball there were horseshoe pitching and croquet. The picnic was a social affair with no program.

Tentative plans are to hold the next meeting of the brotherhood in Commercial Point in the early Fall. No date has been selected. Officers of the county group are E. C. Rector, president; Homer V. Reber, vice president, and H. W. Plum, secretary.

COLUMBUS MAN FACES RETURN TO U. S. PRISON

Homer Bostwick, 26, of 754 N. Wall street, Columbus, who has been held by police and the sheriff's department with another man and two women for investigation in some chicken thefts, will be returned to the U. S. reformatory in Chillicothe as a parole violator. Bostwick pleaded guilty Wednesday before Mayor W. B. Cady on a charge of taking about a gallon of gasoline from the parked car of John Magill, E. Franklin street. The charge was filed by Police Chief William McCrady. Mayor W. B. Cady fined Bostwick $50 and costs and committed him to the county jail to be held for federal authorities.

Bostwick had served 22 months in the federal reformatory on a liquor law violation. The three arrested with Bost-
